

B. A. C. WON VERY HANDILY

Defeated St. Michaels College,
4 to 2, on Goddard Campus

A BIG CROWD WAS PRESENT

Gabelloni and Davidson Did the Twirling for the Locals, While Dower Did the Similar Stunt for the Collegians
From Winooski.

St. Michael's college lowered its colors to the Barre Athletic club at Goddard campus Saturday afternoon, when the two teams went the distance, with the locals winning, 4 to 2. The game had always the element of uncertainty, and whatever it lacked in the way of exciting situations and brilliant plays, its outcome had the redeeming quality of closeness. Both bleachers were crowded and leaning over the ropes of the arena were many who preferred to witness the game in a posture that would permit more active demonstrations of enthusiasm. The early innings of the contest witnessed the return of "Nip" Gabelloni to the pastime and his unheralded advent on the field before the game began caused more than one fan to wonder if Nip could show his last season's form.

Gabelloni started the twirling for the locals and opposed to him was Dower, whose strong right arm has pitched many a St. Michael's team to victory in days and seasons gone by. Dower fanned fourteen men in the course of the game and with a more consistent catcher than Sennett in the first four innings, his record might have been augmented. Brother Nip allowed four hits in the three innings that he tenanted the box, but showed occasional signs of his old-time prowess. Tommie Davidson passed 'em over for the home boys after the third and for seven innings the collegians could do no better than make second. Davidson allowed one hit. Sennett, who started the catching for St. Michael's, grew rapidly worse as the innings went by and in the fourth he was yanked to the bench. Mahar supplanting him on the firing line. The latter's place in the right pasture was occupied there after by Farbell. St. Michael's pitching mainstay and a brother of the copper-colored twirler that accompanied the same outfit to Barre last year.

St. Michael's two counters came in the third, when with two men down, Charbonneau drew a free one and went to third on McGraw's single through second. Both registered at the fourth station on a line drive to center, which netted the author, Stewart, just one bag. Dower repudiated the menacing attitude of his comrades by poking an easy grounder to Bill Stuart at second. In the fourth inning, the invaders gained a distant look at the plate when Houle walked and stole second; but the three succeeding men were out almost in the twinkling of an eye. Houle and Mahar warmed their way to second at two other periods in the game, but never did they come near scoring.

Vigorous applications of the essence of ash and other complications were responsible for the shower of Barre runs that splattered the plate in the third inning. Fresh from their harvest of two runs in the first half, the visitors trotted confidently to the respective corners of the field with visions, perhaps, of a 2 to 0 score. With two men down, Stuart got a life on McGraw's error and tallied when W. Johnston placed the ball over the fence. Clean singles by Taplin and Wright, stolen bases by the latter, and weird misuses contributed to the slaughter that left the college lads in the lurch and the locals ahead by a comfortable margin. Fresh evidence of Sennett's inability to hold his pitcher's presented itself during the round and it was in the next that he was chased away to the bench.

Only once, in the eighth, did the Athletics have a chance to increase their collection. Fowle was an easy out when he shot a roller to Callaghan, but Davidson collided with the ball for a double, although he could not score from second on Nute's single. The latter went down on the throw and both occupants of the two sacks were compelled to watch Stuart fly to field and Bill Johnston live an easy foul to catcher. The score:

Notes on the Game.

Bob Wright flitted about the bases like a bird, and even the strong arm of Mahar, who succeeded Sennett, did not scare the Barre first-sacker. He took long chances and got by with colors flying.
Tarbell, rated as a heavy stickler, failed to follow the delivery of his pale-faced brother, the reservation man fanning once and lifting two easy flies to the infield.

FORT TOSSERS BEATEN, 9 TO 4

Italian A. C. Put Up Good Article of Ball Saturday

WEAFER WAS ON THE MOUND

One of the Biggest Crowds Ever on the Rangers Field Enjoyed Exhibition,
Although Visitors Were Never Really Dangerous.

On their 1912 initial appearance in this city, the Tenth Cavalry baseball team from Fort Ethan Allen were defeated at the hands of the Italian Athletic club Saturday afternoon at the Rangers field. Although the team were without two of their best men, the colored troopers played with the vim and confidence that has in the past characterized their play. It was also the first time this season that they have played an exhibition game away from Winooski, so they were content at the outcome of 8 to 4.

One of the largest crowds ever congregated on the grounds was on hand to greet the biggest drawing card that has played in Barre for the last few years. The lads from Ethan Allen are consistent players and Saturday they showed no exception to the rule.

One regrettable accident happened in the second inning, when Bottiggi, the Italian Athletic club's crack outfielder, as he slid into third base wrenched his right ankle in such a manner that his teammates will have to play for possibly two weeks without their speed man. He was relieved by Williams, the Spaulding high school man, who went through the rest of the game. He pulled down two nice flies and rapped out two clean slashing singles.

"Joe" Weafer, the I. A. C. ironman, who has been the mainstay for the local gang for the past few years, took great pleasure in hurling his curve ball at the sun-burned soldier boys. At no time did he find trouble with disposing of his batters, forcing ten of them to die the ignominious death by the air route. For the Winooski troopers, Page, better known to the baseball public as a third baseman, was the best offer handed over to check the sluggers of the Italian team. He proved himself also to be some pitcher. While ten hits were enrolled against him, errors back of him were largely responsible for a few of the runs against him.

"Waco" Tonazzi, formerly affiliated with Syme Hickey's Milford, Mass. Wanderers, made a catch in centerfield such as has not been made in this territory this season. Vincent, the trooper's second-sacker, knocked out a Texas leaguer back or short stop. Tonazzi came in fast from deep field, taking the ball only a few inches from the ground, falling, but still holding onto the horsehide.

In the opening inning, the Tenth Cavalry soldiers maneuvered for two counters on one hit, a base on balls, and a sacrifice fly, and two more were added on three clean drives in the fourth. This ended their score getting. Following the customary lines, the Barre team broiled its bacon in the first two sessions with six runs, three each inning being charged. After those rounds there never came to the surface any signs of approach from the colored players. The score:

Notes of the Game.

The field showed great change Saturday. The band stand along first base line has been moved back several feet, and the land on which that formerly stood has been leveled off, the earth being deposited in front of the grand stand, thus filling the swampy land.

Among the old faces not with the Fort team now are Patterson, Dailey and Tucker. It is said that these men have left the fort, their time being out, and have no desire to re-enlist. Nevertheless, their progress was filled by efficient players.

In the second inning Weafer caught McGuire napping at first base. His throw caught him a good two feet off the base.
It would benefit the players many times if they were sun glasses in the proximity of right field. Saturday Giacomuzzi let a fly drop for a hit that ordinarily would have been a nutout.
In the third inning, the colored players missed an excellent opportunity for a triple play. Witt was on first, Giacomuzzi on second and Soldini at the bat. "Sol" hit a speedy shoot on a line for left field. Gabriel intercepted the flying sphere. Both Witt and Giacomuzzi had big leads off their bases and were making for the next sack. Gabriel did not get his eye on Giacomuzzi and threw it to third for Witt, who was caught off the base by many feet. The throw then

SPORTING NOTES.

Hinnie Zimmerman is at present the clotting king of the National league. He did his best for the Dodgers a few days ago, when he rapped out two hits that evened the score and then rapped out a homer that won the game.

The Boston Red Sox are having great trouble on the road. Out of the six games they have played since leaving Fenway park about a week ago, the club has run snag and won but twice. Both victories were over the Tigers.

The Dodgers are saved from last place only because they cannot lose as consistently as the Boston team.

Ray Fisher, they say, is expected to be a great aid to the Highlanders' pitching staff.
The university of Pennsylvania has five athletes that are to leave for Cambridge to compete in the Olympic try-outs. Haydock, Lippincott, Edwards, Patterson, and Burdick are the men sent by Mike Murphy. Mercer and McCurdy, the great all-around stars, will be unable to compete, owing to examinations. Marshall is another string Penn man that will not compete.

Otis Crandall is the most valuable man on the Giants' team, in the eyes of many. The outfield, infield and pitcher's box all take on the same aspect towards him. He has a beautiful break on his fast ball. It is a wonder the Giants are not using their pearl more.

To turn out a consistent baseball college team is nearly impossible. Vermont was rated as one of the best college teams in the country and yet lost to Yale and Tufts. At Cambridge the other day the great Williams college team, which was looked upon at the early part of the spring as able to go through the season without a defeat, lost to Harvard, making the second defeat of the season. Pitchers and players also are bound to have their off days. The championship of the eastern colleges may be decided later in this month when Vermont stacks against the Williams team at Williamsstown.

Walter Seibert, who hails from Michigan, was elected captain of the naval academy baseball team for next season. Siebert was a regular pitcher last year and is a great hitter and fielder.

The Harvard college faculty have placed a ban on Sam Felton and will not allow the crimson star to pitch the season.

Yale games, for which he had been "re-lined upon all season by the coach.

Leon Ames of McGraw's outfit claims that the reason the jinx is after him is that he mislaid the red necktie that he carried so successfully through the last trip of the Giants last year. Many people wonder that he does not work better. When in form he has but few equals as a slasher.

John Bates, who has been out of the Cincinnati Reds' line up for some time, is once more ready for the fray. The great slump of the Reds is claimed to have started when Bates dropped out of the game.

Teams in Missouri from Chilhowee and Creighton played a 65-minute game this season with the former team winning. Big league clubs may learn something about fast ball playing from these teams that are making the state famous.

With Johnny Bates back in the game, Manager O'Day will be confronted with a problem of choosing which of his stars shall warm the bench. Either Bescher, Mitchell or Marsans will have to give way to Bates, and it looks as though Marsans, the sensation of the league, will get the goat.

Both the Harvard and Yale crews are on the Thames getting ready for the annual big race. The crews go out every day and are made to work for at least four hours.

In the track meet between Vermont and Massachusetts Agricultural college last Saturday, Vermont won by the score of 81 to 36. Gutterson, the B. A. A. man, who completes his course at the Burlington school this spring, confined himself to the discus throw, which event he won handily. The great all-around star is looked upon nearly all over the country as the winner of the broad jump at the Olympics.

It is rumored that big Ed. Reulbach, the old Barre-Montpelier pitcher, is to be traded to Philadelphia for the services of Earl Moore. Already Reulbach has figured in more proposed deals than any other player in either league this season.

Olson, the Cleveland shortstop, has been in wrong with the Cleveland team as a whole since he had trouble with pitcher Mitchell. There are rumors that he is to be traded for a player of the Toledo American Association club.

In the recent series between the White Sox and Athletics, Kuhn, the recruit catcher of the White Sox, won the admiration of the Chicago fans. There were but few men that managed to puffer bases on his strong arm.

In a fast ten-round bout in New York state the other night, Matt Wells, the English lightweight champion, was outpointed by a second-rater. Wells says that he has gone so far and that he will need a good, long rest before regaining his former condition.

Away out in Oklahoma lives a baseball umpire that might well be drafted into the big leagues so that whenever fights are brewing he could quell them without the assistance of the police. He comes from Tulsa, Okla., and in a game the other day a few of the players accused him of being drunk. He turned on them and battered four, a fifth fainter and the police were called to check his onslaught. He threatened to wipe out every man on the team.

Rube Marquard won his twelfth straight victory Saturday for the Giants. It is now his ambition to reach the world's record. Here's hoping McGraw's prize box does it!

The university of Wisconsin is to be represented in the intercollegiate regatta, which is to be held on the Hudson at Poughkeepsie, June 29. Although not expecting a victory, Coach Vail thinks that they will show very well.

There were a great many surprises and disappointments at the outcome of the Olympic tryouts Saturday at Boston. One of the disappointing events was the one Gutterson took part in. The big Vermont man was off color and was forced to be content with second honors.

Otto Miller, the Dodgers' new catcher, has made good at Brooklyn. During the absence of Erwin and Phelps he has made such a hit with his base throwing and batting that the fans think that he outclasses either of the regular men.

When Holy Cross faces Williams college next Saturday, they will be minus the services of Gus Towney. In a practice game this week he strained a tendon in his leg.

Secretary Sullivan of the American Olympic committee, yesterday, telephoned to the committee at the American team that the committee at the last meeting decided not to take the wrestlers at the expense of the committee. All wrestlers competing from this country will be compelled to pay their own expenses.

Vernon, Amherst's star pitcher, may be out of the game for the rest of the season. In the Princeton game Wednesday he was hit on the wrist by a nasty drive from Greenback's bat. Despite the injury, Vernon finished the game.

H. H. Squires has been elected captain of the university of Vermont track squad for next season. Squires is a weight man and has been a consistent winner in the hammer throw and shot put. K. H. Owens at the same meeting was elected captain of the relay team.

Miner, the great Chicago pitcher, who has been out of the game for a long time with a bad knee, is rounding into shape and will be sent to the lines at any time now.

Benton of the Cincinnati Reds is pitching the best ball of the season for O'Day. Larry McLean, one of the best catchers in the business, claims that when Benton is working right he has the greatest curve in the leagues.

Larry Doyle, the second-sacker of the polo grounds boys, is hitting the ball at a tremendous clip. He has passed Chief Meyers. His batting average has boosted to .304.

Manager Frank Chance of the Cubs seems to be making it a special effort to enter his endeavors to strengthen his team for the present year and having no thoughts of the future. Through the Pittsburgh deal such old-timers as Leach and Liefeld came to Chicago and many others have dropped in also.

All the Brooklyn fans considered, in order to have a winning team, to have an excellent manager. They seem dissatisfied with Bill Dahlen. It is now rumored in Brooklyn that President Ebbetts is scouting for a new head.

It is said that an excessive demand for raise in salary compelled the other clubs in the league to pass up Al Matern. Last year and the year before he was considered the best bet as a south-paw in the league. It is peculiar that all teams should have passed him up, as they are in such need of left-handers.

Dave Brown, a negro heavyweight from Memphis, is in a critical condition at a hospital at St. Louis, after being knocked out in the first round of a butting match with a negro. Brown went down heavily and his skull came in violent contact with the floor. It is reported that there is little chance for recovery.

DOWIE FORGOT

HE HAD $500,000

Died Without Making Known Deposits
There—Servant Tells Story—Widow
Living in Poverty.

Chicago, June 10.—That the late Alexander Dowie, Elijah the Second, and founder of Zion City, left a sum of money approximating $500,000 on deposit in a bank in Edinburgh, Scotland, the existence of which he had forgotten, while dying, became known Saturday.

The information comes from a confidential servant long in the employ of the prophet and for years an inmate of the Dowie mansion in Zion City. Since the death of her husband Mrs. Dowie has been living in poverty in a sparsely furnished cottage near Dowie's grave.

Just before Dowie's death, when the money in the bank across the seas would have saved his religious kingdom, his mind became feeble, and it is believed he forgot all about the money.

Every Saturday afternoon for several years before his death, Dowie wrote a letter to his foreign banker and enclosed a check for a large sum of money.

In all it is believed he sent several hundred thousand dollars in this manner without saying a word to his wife. Only one servant knew of these proceedings, and this servant has now told the story.

Dowie would not even trust his confidential servant with this work—he did it all with his own hand. Laboriously he wrote to his bankers and signed the checks with his now world-famous signature.

It is said the prophet did not miss a Saturday for at least five years. Every week he would send the money abroad, and as far as is known none of it ever has been drawn out.

A letter will be sent to the bank in Scotland, and it is expected that the money will be recovered by the heirs of the estate.
